

Calian ResponseReady[®]

Immersive emergency preparedness exercises for proven response readiness

When an emergency hits, there's no room for guesswork. Prepare your plans, people and processes to work together when real lives and operations are on the line with ResponseReady.

ResponseReady is an immersive, AI-powered solution that enables organizations of any size to design, deliver and evaluate emergency preparedness exercises for any scenario, scope and audience. From facilitated tabletop discussions to full-scale simulations—spanning cyber threats, public health emergencies, nuclear events, wildfires, corporate crises and more—ResponseReady helps teams across government, public and private entities build enterprise-wide preparedness and resilience faster and more efficiently than traditional exercises.

Train for real-world readiness

ResponseReady transforms exercises from static check-the-box activities into interactive, decision-driven experiences that mirror real-world pressure, information flow and uncertainty.

Tabletop exercises

Align leadership, validate plans and strengthen crisis decision-making in structured, scenario-driven discussions.

Drills, functional & full-scale exercises

Bring plans to life through realistic, multi-team simulations that test coordination under pressure and generate measurable improvements.

Crisis communications training

Prepare communications teams to manage media, public inquiries and misinformation in fast-moving information environments.

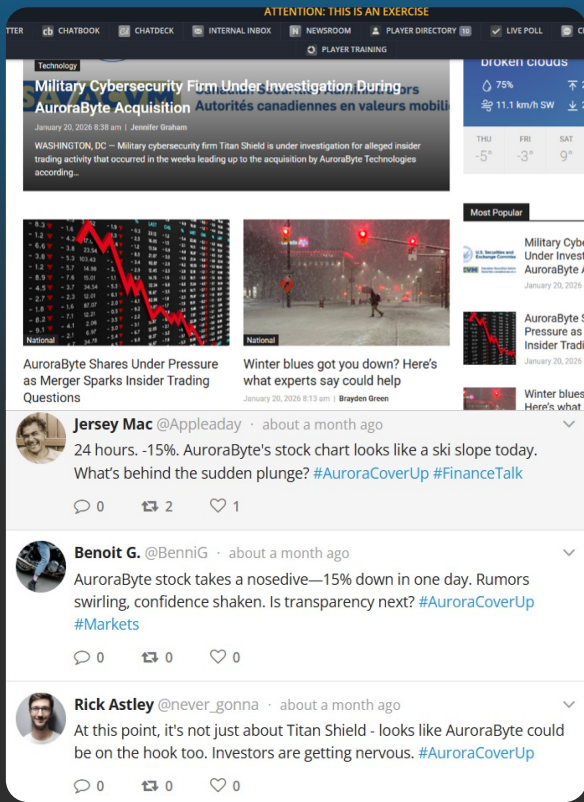

Workshops & seminars

Deliver interactive training across emergency management and business continuity programs that go beyond slide decks.

Navigate the modern media storm

When an emergency arises, public information and social media often move faster than the official response.

ResponseReady simulates a realistic online environment to train communications teams to respond to scrutiny, misinformation and evolving narratives without real-world consequences.

Redefine the training experience

Design

Design targeted scenarios aligned to your risk environment. Use AI-enabled tools to create custom scenarios that reflect real risks, evolving situations and organizational priorities—without starting from scratch each time.

Deliver

Deliver controlled, dynamic exercises in real time. Adjust pacing, introduce new developments and respond to participant needs while keeping all teams informed through a shared view.

Evaluate

Evaluate performance with structured insights that drive continuous improvements to your programs without adding administrative burden.

Work with a trusted partner

For over 20 years, Calian has supported governments, indigenous communities, critical infrastructure operators and private-sector organizations with end-to-end emergency preparedness and business continuity solutions.

Our expert-backed team delivers comprehensive professional services, including ongoing planning, training, and advisory support, to help organizations build resilience and stay prepared as risks and operational environments evolve.

Preparedness requires more than plans—it requires practice.

ResponseReady helps organizations strengthen preparedness by training teams to respond decisively, communicate clearly and recover effectively in times of crisis.
