

Functional service provider solutions

Precision outsourcing tailored to fit your needs

Calian Contract Research Organization (CRO) is a full-service division with more than 20 years of experience supporting high-quality clinical research from early-stage to post-market approval.

Our comprehensive functional service provider (FSP) solutions help pharmaceutical, biotech and medical device companies deliver innovative products that make a difference. We can help you find the right people to make your business successful.

Delivering high-quality staffing

Combining a deep knowledge of clinical research with a proven track record of customer success, our team brings a flexible approach to every request, large or small.

With the lowest turnover rates in the industry, we excel at matching highly qualified professionals to each customer and project. Since all staffing resources are employed by Calian they receive competitive salaries and full benefits. We give our customers access to the best talent, without the burden of high turnover, headcount limitations, payroll and legal obligations.
